Relay Delay Measurements on a Two-Hop Testbed (synthetic evaluation fixture)

We measured end-to-end delay on a two-hop relay chain built from three nodes. For payloads up to 512 bytes, end-to-end delay over the two-hop relay chain stayed within 3 ms of the single-hop value. Larger payloads were not tested, and no topology with more than two hops was evaluated.